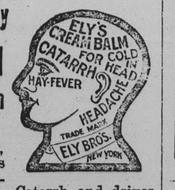
A Reliable Remedy FOR CATARRH
Ely's Cream Balm
Is quickly absorbed.
Gives Relief at Once.
It cleanses, soothes, heals and protects the diseased membrane resulting from Catarrh and drives away a Cold in the Head quickly. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full size 50 cts. at Druggists or by mail. Liquid Cream Balm for use in atomizers 75 cts.
Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.



S. H. HAVEN
HIGH GRADE HARDWARE.
Sporting Goods, Cutlery, Tools, Builders' Hardware, Stoves, Ranges, Agricultural Implements, Etc.
Napa street and First-street East,
SONOMA, CAL.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm will master catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. All druggists sell the 50 cent size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

The Balm is used without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.

Ely's Cream Balm contains no cocaine, mercury nor other harmful drugs.

THE NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION OF WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY

Excels in Vocabulary. It is the most useful in size and contents, judiciously selected to exclude corruptions of good usage, and to avoid unintelligible technicalities.

Excels in Arrangement. Each word begins a paragraph in its correct alphabetical place and is readily caught by the eye.

Excels in Etymologies. These are complete and scientific, and embody the best results of philology. They are not scrimped or crowded into obscure places.

Excels in Pronunciation which is indicated by respelling with the diacritically marked letters used in the schoolbooks, the sounds of which are taught in the public schools.

Excels in Definitions. They are clear, terse, yet complete, and are given in the order in which the word has acquired its shades of meaning. Many of the definitions are illustrated.

Excels in its Appendix which is a packed storehouse of useful knowledge.

Excels as a Working Dictionary. No other book embodies so much useful information, or is so indispensable in the home, study, school, or office.

The International has 2380 quarto pages, 5000 illustrations, 25,000 new words, revised Gazetteer of the World, and a revised Biographical Dictionary, etc. It received

The Return.

... By ...
Martha Cobb Sanford.

Copyrighted, 1908, by M. M. Cunningham.

Life seemed to hold little of romance for Ruth Jeffrey as, with a long drawn sigh, she closed her desk at the end of the day. What was there in it, after all? she asked herself. She looked ahead and imagined one day following another in unvaried monotony. She fancied she could see her hair turning gray and the color fading from her cheeks, though for that it must have taken a very big stretch of the imagination indeed.

And what return was life making her for all the effort that she was putting into it? A negative reciprocation at best. She was not compelled to marry. She had proved herself capable of independence. It was five years since she had entered upon her business career. Her vim and optimism had made for a success even beyond her most sanguine anticipations.

Only a month ago she had accepted at practically her own terms a position that hundreds of women might well envy her and probably did. Surely it was an unseasonable time for her to feel blue and discouraged. There must be some definite cause for her unrest. Ruth set herself the task of discovering it.

Finally, with a somewhat shamefaced yet wistful little smile, she was forced to admit that the disturbing undercurrent began to ruffle her thoughts about the moment that she had stood by her office window that morning and from the height of many stories watched a young man clad in a fur lined overcoat step out of his resplendent motor car and enter the building.

Who the man was did not matter, nor that he was wealthy. It was the woman in the car who stirred old yearnings in Ruth's heart. She had with her for comfort and inspiration through the day the memory of a man's farewell kiss.

This pretty and refreshing bit of sentiment in the midst of a bustling workaday world Ruth had witnessed nearly every morning, to be sure, since she had been in her new position. But never before had it plunged her into such an implacable mood of discontent.

"Well," she commented to herself as she pinned on her little tailor made hat, with a gesture of wholesome determination, "this will never do at all. It's my own fault. I refused him, and that's all there is about it. At the time matrimony seemed such an obvious, commonplace transaction in comparison with the allurement of independence—and now, well, it's no use thinking about it. I may bump into romance any day."

The wind on the night in question was blowing a hurricane. When Ruth tried to open the outside door of the building, she found the resistance too much for her strength and was obliged to fall back a moment.

As she made a second attempt the door yielded with a suddenness that almost upset her equilibrium. She heard some one immediately behind her say, "Allow me," and was aware of a masculine coat sleeve, fur lined, holding back the door for her to pass.

Ruth thanked the auxiliary arm mechanically, half conscious of a tinge of resentment in her gratitude that she should be in any way beholden to the man upon whom that woman, whom she envied, also depended. But the next moment, with characteristic impulsiveness, Ruth found herself chasing a derby hat down the sidewalk. Just as she was about to rescue it from an imminent mud puddle at the corner something struck her a fearful blow, and she lost consciousness.

In the days of delirium that followed Ruth sometimes imagined that a heavy door was swinging back upon her; that a man stood by and would not rescue her. And again she would shrink in fear from a plunging automobile that bore down upon her, while the man and woman within the car laughed and kissed each other. And always the man wore a fur lined overcoat.

When Ruth had recovered sufficiently to be interested in her surroundings, she noticed first the tall fragrant American Beauties by her bedside.

"Who sent them?" she asked the nurse languidly.

"A gentleman, Miss Ruth."

"What gentleman?"

Faint and weak though Ruth's voice was, the nurse detected in it a note of suspicion.

"He did not leave his card, Miss Ruth," replied the nurse, blushing at her own subterfuge, but Ruth did not observe her confusion.

Why Mr. McDonald did not wish his identity disclosed in connection with the roses the nurse did not know. But he had insisted upon being an anonymous benefactor, and it was not her concern to demand his reason for it.

"What does he look like?" Ruth persisted.

"He's young and very distinguished looking," asserted the nurse, both her manner and words bespeaking unshakable conviction.

And then came the crucial question.

"Does he wear a fur lined overcoat?"

"Not always," admitted the nurse in a pathetic attempt to save the situation.

"I thought so," returned Ruth. "I hate him."

"That's only natural, I suppose, dear. But you must remember that he isn't really to blame if it was his car that ran into you. After the accident he held you in his arms all the way home so that the motion of the car would not jar you. He did everything he could do for you. I never saw a man more broken up over anything. He's been here at least once a day ever since."

"H'm!" commented Ruth. "His motive is obvious. He's afraid I'll sue him for damages. I despise him When did he send those roses?"

"Every day—today, I mean. He's had fresh ones sent every morning. It's very romantic, Miss Ruth, to my way of thinking," ventured the nurse, casting a sly glance at her patient.

"Romantic!" repeated Ruth. "It's lucky you were not the one run over. That man would have had you thanking him for the privilege, but he can't bribe me with daily visits and floral contributions. You see there isn't the ghost of a chance for anything romantic in the situation. He's married."

"Oh!" exclaimed the nurse, with unmistakable disappointment. "I didn't know, Miss Ruth. I beg your pardon."

So that was why he presented roses anonymously and why her patient hated him. Possibly before he was married—it was thus the nurse allowed her imagination to put two and two together.

"Don't keep any more of his old roses, please, and don't let him come here any more." Ruth gave her orders wearily and was soon asleep.

Norman McDonald continued to call, however, and to send roses, quite unconscious that the latter never found their way to Ruth's sickroom.

The reports that the nurse gave him from day to day of the girl's recovery were not gratifying.

"She doesn't seem to gain at all," the nurse complained one morning disconsolately. "She sits up, but she has no animation—no courage hardly. She never mentions her work, and they say she was heart and soul devoted to it before the—before her illness. The wistfulness of her little pale face is enough to break your heart."

The young man looked very thoughtful.

"I suppose she has never asked to see me?" he inquired at length.

"I have never heard her speak your name, Mr. McDonald," replied the nurse evasively.

"No, of course. It isn't likely that she would. It's a blessed thing, though, that she doesn't realize that it was I—that it was my car that injured her."

The nurse was confused.

"But I fear she does, Mr. McDonald. In fact, I'm sure she does."

"But I thought you said you never heard her speak of me?"

"Not by name," the nurse repeated.

Norman's perplexity was evident.

"She speaks of you as the 'gentleman of the fur lined overcoat,'" the nurse explained. "And she has requested me not to let you come here, Mr. McDonald. I hadn't the courage to tell you before."

The young man showed no surprise, but looked deeply troubled.

"Well," he said finally, "at least I can telephone, and I'm sure you'll tell me if there is ever any way I can be of further service to her. When she has fully recovered, I shall hope"—

"Oh, Mr. McDonald," the nurse interrupted, "I suppose I haven't any right to tell you, but sometimes in her delirium Miss Jeffrey used to mention some one for whom she seemed to care a great deal—some one evidently whom she had refused to marry. I realize that I am betraying confidences, but I thought perhaps you might know him and that it might do her good to see him. She called him 'Laddie.'"

The young man started at the name, then broke out into a hearty laugh.

The nurse cautioned him to be quiet, but the caution came too late.

"Who's there?" It was Ruth's voice calling anxiously from the room above.

The nurse had no evasive answer ready, but had she had one at her tongue's end there would have been no time to utter it, for at the sound of Ruth's voice Norman had bounded up the stairs two, three, at a time and now stood on the upper landing with the girl crushed rapturously to him.

"Oh, Laddie, Laddie!" Ruth cried joyously. "I knew your laugh."

But at the consciousness of his kiss she drew back from him with a cry that was half grief, half anger, and threw herself upon the couch, sobbing bitterly.

"Ruth, Ruth, what is it, little one? Tell me, dearest," pleaded Norman.

"Go back to her," the girl gasped finally through her sobs.

"Go back to whom?" asked Norman, utterly mystified.

"Oh, you are cruel. Why did you come? I've watched you kiss her goodby every morning when you left her at the office, and I envied her then, though I didn't know it was you. I—I only remembered what I had lost. Oh, don't stand there and pity me. Go back, go back!"

"Ruth, sweetheart, listen! There is no one to go back to. That is my sister you have seen me with. Surely you knew I would wait for you—and you have come. Don't cry any more, little one."

And Ruth let herself be comforted and loved and kissed—like any tired child.

"The return is very sweet, Laddie," she whispered. "You'll keep on coming every day now, won't you?"

Quarter.

The term "quarter," used in warfare, originated from an agreement anciently made between the Dutch and Spaniards, that the ransom of a soldier taken in action should be a quarter of his pay. Probably it meant to "grant conditions." In this sense the expression was commonly used at one time. As a modern warlike term, to give quarter means that the prisoners of war should be sent to the rear of the army and there lodged and fed by the captors until exchanged or released on the termination of hostilities.

LEE AND M'CLELLAN.

An Incident of the First Meeting of the Two Soldiers.

The first meeting between General George B. McClellan and General Robert E. Lee happened in Mexico during the war with that country. McClellan was a lieutenant of engineers, and Lee was a major on the staff of General Winfield Scott.

One day McClellan was walking across a field when he saw General Scott and his staff approaching on horseback. As they drew near Major Lee reined up his horse and asked the lieutenant if he did not know that he was disobeying orders. His tone was sharp and angry. McClellan answered that he was not aware of any disobedience and asked for an explanation. Lee replied that all officers had been told to remain in their quarters, awaiting orders, and asked for the lieutenant's name.

McClellan gave his name and said that no order of that kind had reached him. But Lee in a peremptory tone ordered him to go to his quarters and remain there. Then he rode off and rejoined General Scott and the staff, who had not stopped. McClellan went to his quarters, as he had been directed to do, but was quite indignant at the way in which Lee had treated him, for he had not knowingly committed a breach of discipline.

He had just finished telling his brother officers the incident when he was informed that an officer was outside the tent asking for him. On going out he was much surprised to see Major Lee, who saluted him with respect.

"Lieutenant McClellan," the major said, "I am afraid that I was not courteous in my manner to you a little while ago, and I have called to apologize."

"I assured him that it was all right," said General McClellan in telling the story, "and he rode off after making a low bow, leaving me in admiration of a superior officer who so promptly and generously repaired an error."—Chicago News.

AN AERIAL HORROR.

The Very Dreadful Thing That Strohschneider Did.

A group of aeronauts were talking aeronautics.

"Did you ever hear of Strohschneider?" said a German. "He did a dreadful thing once. I'll tell you about it.

"Strohschneider appeared in a certain village and advertised that he would take the landlord of the village inn up with him on a trapeze hanging from the car of his balloon.

"Though the landlord's wife made a kick and the authorities, upholding her, forbade the man to accompany Strohschneider, the landlord sat in state on the trapeze beside the famous aeronaut when the ascension began.

"But those nearest to him noticed that he was paler than a ghost and that his arm was thrown around Strohschneider's neck as if in terror. And, noting these things, the people nodded ominously to one another.

"Up and up went the balloon, and now a murmur of horror arose among the multitude. The aeronaut and the landlord were quarreling; they were fighting. High up there in the clouds, perched on the swaying trapeze, they struggled, thumped, kicked.

"Suddenly the aeronaut, in a mad burst of rage, seized the landlord by the throat, thrust him backward and flung him into space. Down the poor fellow dropped like a stone, turning over and over. He alighted on his head.

"The people, mad with horror and rage, rushed to the spot. And there, to their amazement, stood the landlord, laughing heartily. The figure that had fallen was a manikin dressed up in his clothes.

"And this," the speaker concluded, "is the only practical joke that has ever been played from a balloon."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, sees imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and such cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a strong professional indorsement of each of its several ingredients—worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional testimonials. The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath.

In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of this "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Doctor Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser (1000 pages) is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address as above.

Crusade Against Impure Milk.

IT MUST be acknowledged that there is good common sense in the crusade of the San Francisco club women against impure milk and unclean dairies, since milk is an article of consumption which affects every home and life and concerns every consumer in every walk of life in every community. It is a crusade backed up by broader, more humanitarian interest than the liquor crusade, which is something which affects only that part of the people who elect to be affected by indulgence or over-indulgence.

Milk is an article above all others most easily affected by impurities and it is the chief diet of helpless infants who depend on the supervision of the adult public as a guarantee of its freedom from poison.

There is no compunction of conscience where the public does not interest itself and the maxim "what you don't know won't hurt you" is practiced by the majority of those handling such products. One dealer candidly told in court that ten cents per quart was not sufficient compensation for milk properly cared for, which is an indirect admission that any old milk is handed out to customers by San Francisco dealers, who would raise the prise of cleanliness to the public and then never deliver the goods, for it is safe to say that cleanliness could not be had for love or money from those who take this point of view. It is only when prosecuted and fined heavily that they will begin to realize that it is cheaper to be clean than careless. It is not only the sanitary phase of the problem which affects the consumer, but the adulteration of milk is a further imposition which the greed of the dealer thrusts upon the credulous public.

We of the country have an interest in the cleanliness of our dairies that our conscience may be clear in regard to the shipment of wholesome products to the distributing points, and let it be said for the dairies of Sonoma Valley that they are well supervised by the owners and would serve as patterns for all concerns of this kind The dealers who eventually get this milk and would adulterate it or not care of it in the city do an injustice to the producer as well as the consumer, so he is naturally interested in the crusade against crookedness.

There should be a constant interest on the part of the public in these matters of food consumption, for many men are so unscrupulous that they care more for the five cent pieces than they do for ptomaine poison, sufferfng or the death which their methods bring upon the families at their mercy.

Plague Take the Rats.

There's one thing exciting the entire earth,
From London to 'Frisco it's plain
An army recruited, that's not to be booted,
The people are acting insane.

They are running pell-mell with poisonous dopes,
Now wouldn't it rattle your slats;
Not the Japs or the Turks is their enemy grim,
But those sleek, sly, scampering Rats.

Now, puffed with importance that they are the cause
Of all this human excitement,
Has quite roused the rodents, their importance they feel,
They are filled with real delightment.

They've been suddenly thrust in the front of the ranks,
Ahead of all beasts of the earth,
Africa's lion or beast of Hawaiian
Have lost all their terrible worth.

The elephant's trunk with the badgers and skunks
Will be shipped to some circus or zoo;
All beasts must retire from the field, oh! 'tis dire;
Plague take the rats we pursue.

No longer coyotes have a price on their heads,
Alone as they did long ago;
But rats' scalps we're after, was man ever dafter,
Than in his crusade 'gainst this foe.

Plague is the issue,
Disease germs they've got;
The fleas from their backs
Carry plagues—that's the rot.

We are doomed to succumb,
If we don't make them scat;
Oh, germs, ye most deadly ones,
Plague take the Rat!

THE San Francisco Chronicle of Wednesday, in a leading editorial, says that Hughes will be nominated at the National Republican convention. With due respect for the opinion of our metropolitan contemporary, which is opposed to the policies of Roosevelt, we do not agree with it. Taft will be the man on the first or second ballot.

There is an ironical denial of one Count's engagement to an American woman in the foreign dispatch, which declares, "he is a Hungarian deputy and enjoys a good reputation." The latter qualification would seem to bar him.

THE woman who tied herself to a sewing machine to enlist the sympathy of her husband was probably just trying to patch up the difference, as her proximity to the machine would suggest.

THE scalded actor who continued to play his part was probably immune from distress, as actors are generally in hot water.

A. W. Peterson Dead

A. W. Peterson, a well-known farmer of Agua Caliente, died at his home near that place last Monday after a long illness. The cause of death, as certified to by his physician, Dr. A. M. Thomson, was softening of the brain.

The deceased's remains were shipped to Vallejo last Wednesday for interment in Odd Fellows Cemetery of that place. The funeral took place the following day under the auspices of San Pablo Lodge, No. 43, of which the deceased was a member in good standing.

Mr. Peterson leaves a widow and several children and numerous friends in this valley to mourn his loss. He was a native of Sweden and aged 62 years.

I've been so awfully busy delivering packages and keeping things straight in this store since this sale that really I hardly know whether I am afoot or on horseback. One thing is certain, if the packages get much heaver or more numerous I'd rather be driving a horse than riding a wheel or walking afoot through this mud.

Say, did you hear about that towel special—ten-cent towels, for five cents, but only one dozen to each person. The goods on special sale are worth much more than they are marked and we want them divided up among our customers, you see. I know the boys won't care if I tell you there will be some more of these towels as well as many other snaps in our special sale Saturday.

Growing Aches and Pains

Mrs. Josie Sumner, Bremond, Texas, writes, April 15, 1902: "I have used Ballards Snow Liniment in my Family for three years. I would not be without it in the house. I used it on my little girl for growing pains and aches in her knees. It cured her right away. I have also used it for frost bitten feet, with good success. It is the best liniment I ever used." 25c, 50c and $1.00

Child's Life Saved by Chamberlain' Cough Remedy

Mrs John Englehardt of Gera, Mich., tells of the anixious moments spent over her little two-year-old daughter who had taken a hard cold resulting in croup. She says, "I am satisfied that if it had not been for Chamberlain's Cough remedy she would have choked to death. I gave this medicine every ten minutes and she began to throw up the phlegm. I can recommend it in the highest terms as I have another child that was cured in the same way."

THE SEASON'S RARE VINTAGE.

Wines Show Splendid Body and Rich Vinosity—Yield 18,000,000 Gallons.

The Gundlach-Bundschu Wine Company of Sonoma, San Francisco and New York in its anuual greeting to the wine trade, just issued, has this to say among other things of this year's vintage:

"Not many vintages have been blessed with such ideal weather conditions lasting throughout the entire harvest season. All the grapes reached the crushers in the very best state of preservation. No untimely rain storms intercepted the picking.

"The yield in most districts may be safely put down as one-third more than last year. Especially the healthy resistant vineyards of Sonoma, Napa, Alameda and Santa Clara counties were richly endowed. Not alone in quantity, but principally so in an excellent quality of their product. The wines show splendid body and rich vinosity. The finer types of red wines are mellow, of beautiful color, and are bound to develop exceptional superiority. Even the rank and file of the Clarets, the Zinfandels, Mataros and Carignans present a better general average than usual. Thus the vintage of 1907 may be considered a great blessing for our wine industry generally because its selected products are destined to form an important factor in the resumed accumulation of high grade specialties for aging and future requirements. In this respect it is essential to state that of the estimated yield of about 18 million gallons of dry wines, only a very light percentage, perhaps hardly 20 per cent, are white wines and the bulk of 80 per cent are red wine types. This indicates a prospective shortage in the white wine line."

Those Pitchforkers.

Three well-known business men of this place were observed by an eagle-eyed INDEX-TRIBUNE reporter to sneak out of town under cover of darkness on Monday night of last week. They were armed with pitchforks and their suspicious actions caused a strict watch to be, kept on them, as it was feared that upon murder bent, the trio were about to waylay some enemy and bayonet him with the pitchforks. Later, however, these dire suspicions proved groundless, although in the darkness they appeared to the reporter to be as hard-looking characters as ever scuttled a ship or cut a throat. After getting well out of town the suspects were seen to enter Agua Caliente creek, where they appeared to be searching for something in the water. After threshing up and down the stream and prodding the deep places with their pitchforks, apparently without result, they made their way across the valley and silently and mysteriously entered Fowler creek. Here the same tactics were pursued that marked their entry into the former creek. These strange antics were kept up for some time and it now became apparant to the startled reporter that mayhap he was following three escapes from the Napa bug house, for such peculiar actions he had never seen. However that may be, the trio, after a fruitless quest up that stream, took to the road and later on were seen to enter the lower end of town at an hour when graveyards yawn and hobgoblins are said to be stalking abroad. They were wet, bedraggled, tired and looked disgusted. Their search had been a fruitless one.

What's that—our reporter a sucker? Not on your life, else he would never have lived to report the tale. He would have been given the pitchfork, as all fish looked alike to the adventurers.

Fell Through

The efforts to secure a special train to run from this place to the Citrus Fair, which opens next Tuesday in Cloverdale has been abandoned. The Northwestern Pacific, however, will run excursion trains to and from the Fair at a greatly reduced for fares.

DEMOLITION OF AN ANCIENT LANDMARK

The Old City Pavilion Will Soon be a Thing of Memory Only

The demolition of the old City Pavilion, that ancient eyesore of the town, will soon be a thing of the past. It was recently sold to Mr. Sophey for $100 by the City Trustees, who has a force of men engaged in tearing down and carting away the old concern. It will be hauled to his ranch near town and converted into a barn.

The old pavilion was erected on the Plaza before the town was reincorporated twenty-five or thirty years ago It was built by public subscription and was originally intended as a dance pavilion for Sunday picnicers. The Montgomery Guards of San Francisco and other military and civic societies were wont to hold high jinks in those days in the ancient structure. This was immediately after the advent ot the Donahue railroad into the valley. In time the Sunday picnics became unpopular and the building became a roosting place for owls and a shelter for cows, goats and hogs which used to roam the streets at will in those days.

In the early eighties the town was reincorporated and the pavilion was boarded in and ycleped "The City Pavilion."

Later on a stone jail was erected on the inside of the building, and here has been housed for nearly thirty years city officials, bums, drunks, fire bugs and other malefactors. (No reflection on the officals past or present.)

Baldocchi Murder Case.

The case of the People vs. Baldocchi, charged with murder, will come up for trial in Ukiah, Mendocino county, next Tuesday. A number of character witnesses have been subponed from this place by the defense, among them being Messrs. L Quartaroli, A. Beretta, E. H. Lounibos, S. Ciucci, J. Bethune and A. Pinelli.

Baldocchi killed a man in Mendocino county some months ago. After the tragedy he flld to this county and was apprehended and arrested by Deputy Sheriff Joe Ryan of this place.

The accused claims he slew his victim in self-defense and that will be his plea.

Three Nights of Chaste Entertainment.

The trans-continental Chautauqua Assembly of entertainers will hold forth for three successive nights in Union Hall next week. The opening night will be on Monday, February 17th, when the Robley male quartette will appear. On Tuesday evening Sobieski, the Polish Prince, will lecture on the rise and fall of the Polish Republic and on Wednesday night the famous Meneley quartet will present a fine program. The entertainment for the three evenings will be chaste, enjoyable and instructive and ought to attract full houses.

Special Services at M. E. Church.

On Wednesday evening, February 19th, a series of special meetings will begin. Miss Lamb, a Deaconess from the San Francisco Deaconess Home, will be present to preach and otherwise assist in the services. It is very much hoped that people will personally interest themselves in the meetings and support them by their presence.

Women of Woodcraft.

A circle of Women of Woodcraft was organized here on Monday, February 3rd, with a membership of thirty-one. Of these, twenty-two are beneficiaries. The Circle was organized by Mrs. Harriet S. Schenck. The Circle will be instituted upon the return of the certificates which have been forwarded to the grand body for endorsement. Glen Ellen Circle will be present on that occasion to exemplify the work of the order.

Mrs. Cassidy's Condition.

Mrs. Geo. H. Cassidy, whose life was all but despaired of by her physicans last week, is still alive, but very low. She has exhibited remarkable vitality throughout her illness and at latest accounts was resting easy.

"Vacation"—A Valuable Booklet.

The Northwestern Pacific Railroad Company, through Mr. J. J. Geary, its General Passenger Agent, announces in these columns, that the anuual booklet "Vacation" will again be issued this season.

This little publication, which has made its annual appearence in the early spring the past five or six years, has done more to advertise Sonoma Valley and other sections of this part of the State than any other one thing we know of. It has been the means of bringing a multitude of home-seekers here and has put thousands of dollars into the pockets of our people by advertising gratis accommodations throughout the valley for summer boarders. Indications point to a large influx of summer people this season and those who can conveniently do so should seek to accommodate them. This will be of mutual advavtage all round. To those who desire to accommodate one or more boarders an information blank will be furnished by the local agent or can be cut out of this paper. This should be filled out and sent in to Mr. Geary not later than March 1st for publication in the booklet, which costs you nothing. We advise our readers to attend to this matter at once. It not only means money in the pockets of a few but everybody in the valley will have a whack at the coin left in our midst by the summer visitor.

THE FIREMEN ELECT NEW OFFICERS.

J. E. Poppe and G. S. Harris Tie for Chief—The Banquet.

The Sonoma Volunteer Firemen held their annual election for officers last Wednesday night. All the old officers were re-elected with the exception of Chief J. E. Poppe, whose re election was contested by G. S. Harris. The contest between these two was an exciting one and resulted in a tie. Another ballot for Chief will be held at the next regular monthly business meeting.

The other officers chosen were as follows: President, F. T. Duhring; Secretary, Jas. H. Albertson; Treasurer, W. F. Clewe; First Assistant Chief, Sam Lewis; Second Assistant Chief, Mike Cummings; Steward, H. Pooler; Foreman Hook and Ladder Truck, Geo. Engler; Foreman Hose Cart, Geo. Breitenbach; Foreman Engine, P. G. Keil.

After the business of the meeting had been finished the firemen and a number of invited guests adjourned to the Toscano Hotel, where the annual banquet was held. Forty sat down to the spread which had been prepared for them by mine host Ciucci. Carl Dresel acted as toastmaster. Feasting and toasting was the order of the evening and was kept up till the wee sma' hours.

GLAD IT DID SO MUCH GOOD.

Druggists Hear Much Praise for this Simple Home-made Mixture.

Some remarkable stories are being told about town and among the country people coming in of this simple home made mixture curing Rheumatism and Kidney trouble. Here is the recipe and directions for taking: Mix by shaking in a bottle one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Take as a dose one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

No change need be made in your usual diet, but drink plenty of good water.

This mixture, writes one authority in a leading Philadelphia newspaper, has a peculiar tonic effect upon the kidneys; cleansing the clogged-up pores of the eliminative tissues, forcing the kidneys to sift and strain from the blood the uric acid and other poisonous waste matter, overcoming rheumatism, bladder and urinary troubles in a short while.

A New York druggist who has had hundreds of calls for these ingredients since the first announcement in the newspapers last October stated that the people who once try it "swear by it" especially those who have Urinary and Kidney trouble and suffer with Rheumatism.

The druggist in this neighborhood say they can supply the ingredients, which are easily mixed at home. There is said to be no better blood-cleansing agent or system tonic known, and certainly none more harmless or simple to use.

The Daily Call and Index-Tribune $9 per year for both papers.

How Is Your Blood?

If you lack strength, are nervous, have no appetite, don't sleep well, get tired easily, your blood is in bad condition. You cannot be strong without pure, rich blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes good rich blood and keeps it good.

Dyspepsia—"For six months my system was out of order with dyspepsia and impure blood. Spent lots of money in vain, but Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me." JOS. S, ZAUBA, Genoa, Neb.

Had No Appetite—"I was troubled with dyspepsia and had no appetite. I had a faint feeling after eating. My constitution was all run down, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has fully relieved me." FLORENCE STOVE, Snidersville, Wisconsin.

Weakness—"I bless the day I heard of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it cured me of extreme weakness after grip, built my husband up after pneumonia, and cured eczema and blood-poisoning in our children." MRS. M. A. DELWORTH, Box 4, Elmbrook, Pa.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold everywhere In the usual liquid, or in tablet form called Sarsatabs. 100 Doses One Dollar. Prepared only by C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass.

CATCHING AN ALBATROSS.

The Bird Enjoys the Sport and Is Landed Uninjured.

With the birds settling by the dozen it is easy enough to capture specimens for examination without causing injury or pain. Any sharply barbed hook is altogether superfluous. The albatrosses absolutely enjoy the excitement, and the sport obtained is not without a novel interest.

A small metal frame should be made in the shape of a hollow triangle attached to 100 yards of stout line and kept afloat by a good sized piece of cork. The sides of the metal frame are then covered with bits of fat pork, the hard skin of which is securely bound thereto. The bait is thrown astern, and the line is slowly paid out.

Presently a great albatross swoops through the air, impelled by curiosity to investigate the nature of the floating pork. It settles before the dainty morsel of food; numbers of birds follow suit, each one made bold by competition, and then the sport begins.

At this moment additional line must be given in order to compensate for the progressing of the ship, thus enabling a bird to seize the desired food. With a sudden rush the supreme effort is made. Once or twice the attempt proves ineffectual; but, rendered bold by greediness, a final grab finds the curved bill securely wedged inside the apex of the triangle, as the fierce tugs on the line quickly indicate.

Steadily the haul is made, hand over hand, until a helpless albatross is bodily lifted on to the poop in an absolutely uninjured condition. A slackened line enables the bird to escape, and if scattered wits permitted such an effort sudden flight would obtain release.

The other birds invariably commence to attack a wounded comrade, a steady pull being required, even if the line does cut your hands, to save it from its friends. Once safely on deck the mandibles are tied together, for otherwise the bird throws up an oily fluid, a disagreeable habit possessed by all the tribe.

Subject to this precaution it may wander gravely around to survey the new horizon of life. The large eyes gaze with a truly pathetic confidence expressive of anything but fear.

It is a strange spectacle to witness the inquisitive bird solemnly waddle to and fro among the equally inquisitive human beings around. True, it objects slightly to the process of measurement, pecking sharply by way of protest, but a gentle box on the ear soon induces submission as the dimensions are rapidly noted, the albatross meanwhile reposing affectionately in the arms of the second officer.

The specimen happens to be a small one, but the wing expansion from tip to tip is less than ten feet, the extreme length of body is three feet six inches and the formidable bill measures upward of four inches.—Cornhill Magazine.

MAKING A COAT.

Thirty-nine Distinct Varieties of Work by as Many Men.

According to the United States bureau of labor, the old saw "It takes nine tailors to make a man" is filled with misinformation, for in reality, the bureau finds, it takes thirty-nine men of different trades just to make a coat under the present system of shop manufacture, for the day when one tailor measured the customer, cut out the cloth and, with his apprentices, shaped it into a finished and pressed garment has practically passed. Today all one tailor may do through his entire life is to mark the place where buttons are to be sewed on. Another man never marks places for buttons. His specialty is to mark buttonholes. A third man spends the long day in sewing on buttons, a fourth in making buttonholes. Men who sew sleeves do not make armholes. The armhole men give place to shoulder shapers, and these last do not touch collars, which are a distinct specialty. Even the men who manipulate the tailor's goose are divided into pressers of seams, edges, linings, sleeves and coat pressers. The basters stick to one distinct specialty of basting, and a separate functionary, the basting puller, undoes their work. Even the coat strap is a separate province. So that when the coat is finished it represents thirty-nine distinct varieties of work by as many men. And when a man finally puts on the coat he is wearing the product of 312 fingers and seventy-eight thumbs, not counting the digits of those who sheared the sheep, wove the cloth, dyed it, finished it, shipped it and cut it nor the ink stained clerical hands which kept a book record of all the processes. Probably from sheep to wearer the coat was handled by at least 3,000 fingers.—New York Tribune.

Elephant Police.

The sight of six pairs of elephants simultaneously at work capturing a half dozen struggling, trumpeting mates is an imposing one. Like a pair of animal policemen arresting a prisoner, the great beasts sidle alongside a victim, take him between them and jostle and squeeze and worry him, tail first, toward a tree. Every inch is contested by the herculean fighters until nearing a stout tree or stump the little brown elephant catchers slide from their mounts to the ground, crawl under the ponderous bellies and shuffling, kicking feet, slip cable slings about a hind foot and take a turn around a tree.—Strand Magazine.

Brilliant Idea.

"I can't understand," said the stranger, "since the monument is perfectly cylindrical in form, why they put in square railing around it."

"Perhaps," replied the native "they didn't have enough railing to go round."—Philadelphia Press.

Pleasant and Most Effective

T. J. Chambers, editor Vindicator, Liberty, Tex., writes Dec. 25, 1902. "With pleasure and unsolicited by you, I bear testimony to the curative power of Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I have used it in my family and can cheerfully affirm it is the most effective and best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used."

Neglected Colds Threaten Life

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

"'Don't trifle with a cold,' is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in the case of a child. Proper food, good ventilation, and dry, warm clothing are the proper safeguards against colds. If they are maintained through the changeable weather of autumn, winter and spring the chances of a suprise from ordinary colds will be slight. But the ordinary light cold will become severe if neglected, and a well established ripe cold is to the germs of diphteria what honey is to the bee. The greatest menace to child life at this season of the year is the neglected cold." Whether it is a child or an adult, the cold slight or severe, the very best treatment that can be adopted is to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is safe and sure. The great popularity and immense sale of this preparation has been attained by its remarkable cures of this ailment. A cold never results in pneumonia when it is given.

For sale by L. S. Simmons.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend Perils of Crinoline.

The dangers of the historic crinoline are illustrated by a story told by Lady Dorothy Nevill in her "Reminiscences." Going too near the fireplace, her voluminous skirt caught fire, and in an instant she was in a blaze. There were no men present, and the women could not help her, because if they had gone near enough to be of use their own skirts would have been ignited. Fortunately Lady Dorothy had sufficient presence of mind to roll herself in the hearth rug and thus subdue the flames.

A Judge of Land.

Proud Father—Welcome back to the old farm, my boy. So you got through college all right? Farmer's Son—Yes, father. Proud Father—Ye know, I told ye to study up chemistry and things, so you'd know best what to do with different kinds of land. What do you think of that flat medder there, for instance? Farmer's Son—Cracky, what a place for a ball game!—Kansas City Independent.

Fity the Poor Wolf.

"Why is it," asked the fox, "that you always look so gaunt?"

"Oh," replied the wolf, "it's all due to the business I'm in. I always have to keep away from the door until there's nothing left in the house to eat."—Catholic Standard and Times.

The New Yorker.

"You New Yorkers don't seem to know anything about the rest of the country," said the visitor.

"The rest of the country?" echoed the New Yorker. "What's that?"—Philadelphia Ledger.
